THE BLACKSTONE

Twelve years ago the press of the entire country was filled with columns of glowing description of the wonders of construction and the elegance of equipment of The Blackstone. Since then it has been patterned after by hotels everywhere, but never even equaled. No other hotel has contributed more to make Chicago a great hotel city; no other hotel has done as much to lift and maintain the standard of hotel operation on a high plane. It has continually maintained a characteristic style of beauty and an atmosphere of refinement that appeal to all people of good taste. It has always been most popular with the best class of the residential and transient public, for the entertainment of the city's distinguished guests, for banquets and high grade social functions. Its location at the edge of the loop makes it very convenient for luncheons and dinners before the theatre and for teas and suppers after.

THE DRAKE

Is justly entitled to be called the most spacious hotel in the United States, and its reputation for elegance and quality may never be surpassed in this generation. Situated as it is on upper Michigan Avenue, where Lake Michigan and Lake Shore Drive meet, it is directly on the great artery of traffic to the north. This location is in the center of the aristocratic residential district, immediately adjoining Lincoln Park, yet it is very near the center of the city, being only twenty minutes' walk, or four minutes by bus or taxicab. This imposing structure sentinels the north end of the great Boulevard Link, as The Blackstone sentinels the south end of this wonderful two miles of buildings on Michigan avenue, which form a very impressive skyline for the city. Both The Drake and The Blackstone are motor-linked by this wonderful highway, and add greatly to Chicago's City Beautiful Plan. The elaborate views in the center of this booklet will give one a pictorial idea of the luxurious and attractive rooms. The Drake possesses a wonderful and unique atmosphere all its own, similar to that of a rare Italian villa.
